

"NO CO-OPERATION" IS MORGAN CHARGE

Attorney General in Sharp Answer to Criticism by Blaine.

Madison.—Refusal of the governor to cooperate with the attorney general in his efforts to curb price fixing combinations in Wisconsin has been responsible for any delay in forcing legal actions to a speedy conclusion, Attorney General William J. Morgan tells Gov. J. J. Blaine in a letter Wednesday morning, which questioned the activity of the attorney general in carrying out cases which he had started. Mr. Morgan declares he intends to prosecute unlawful combinations in restraint of trade whether "we have your cooperation or your opposition, but it must be apparent to you that we will be more successful and that the state's interests better served if we have your cooperation, which we earnestly desire, rather than unfounded criticism in the newspapers which can do no good and which are trying to break up."

Old Cases Left. "Your observation that all litigation in behalf of the state should be prosecuted expeditiously is perhaps pardonable if you fear that I may initiate your example rather than your words. I find pending in the office three of the five suits against Dr. King, Pfister and others, which you permitted to slumber undisturbed for the two years you were attorney general."

"I do not find any record of any anti-trust suits commenced during your term of office as attorney general, although you have evidence to justify their commencement," Mr. Morgan continues in the letter. "You have handicapped my department by your attitude," he says. "John J. Blaine, personally, has an undoubted right to refuse to see William J. Morgan, but the governor of the state ought not to refuse to see the attorney general for five minutes or you recently did for over twenty-four hours before you went out of the state, although in the meantime you made appointments or immediate interviews with persons both in and out of the state service."

Should Drop Politics. "The great disappointment of a state officer involved in withholding official communications from him after copies are given to the press cannot be excused on the ground of politics. The state will be better served if state officers will forget politics and cooperate with each other."

Continuing the attorney general says that "I must decline to accept your suggestion that we hold all further anti-trust suits and prosecutions in abeyance until we have a final judgment on the Dr. King case or the tobacco combination suit. I do not intend to permit other combinations to continue un molested. I permitted the tobacco case to go on the term at the request of the defendant's attorneys for reasons that were sufficient, and I will continue to manage that case in such manner as I believe to be best serve the interests of the state."

"The remarks which you appended to the anti-price fixing bill which you signed after its passage by the legislature, notwithstanding the opposition of some of your followers in the legislature, were doubtless inspired by the commencement of the Dr. King case, since you depreciate the commencement of the case against grocers here and there."

Gather Evidence. "Then, while your observations appended to that bill were marked 'not for publication' by you and were doubtless intended for future use rather than as a present suggestion to me, it seems to me that in proceedings against the larger combinations which enhanced prices before I spent further time on the Dr. King case, I have been following your suggestion."

"It is not a suit commenced at your direction. Neither was the tobacco anti-trust case commenced at your direction. While my assistants might, otherwise have been trying the Dr. King case, they have been gathering evidence on the tobacco case in violation of the law far more injurious to the people, which will be proceeded again in due time."

"The cases that we have started will be prosecuted expeditiously and there will be plenty more started while we are waiting for the first ones to be reached for trial in court. We mean business, and are not starting cases for political effect."

Audience Is Denied. "The criticism of this department in not having commenced an action against the state of Illinois is unwarranted and untrue. Mr. Morgan says that he told how he and Mr. Hoyt, deputy attorney general, have for four months been unable to get an audience with the governor to discuss the action which it was his intention to commence."

"The state's interests, in my opinion, demand that you permit the deputy attorney general to confer with you before proceeding with the Illinois suit commenced by the legislature," Mr. Morgan says. "The delay in bringing this suit is due to your persistent refusal to confer with me on this subject. The attorney general now again asks the governor to give his deputy an interview regarding this case."

"I have no desire to discuss with you at this time the amount of the appropriation of this department, but my department for the money spent by me account for the proper time, and I am not to be frightened by any empty talk about economy because of an increase of $3,500 per year in the appropriation of this department, when the expenditure of a few thousand dollars may mean millions to the people of the state."

Cooperation Is Promised. "Last December, before taking office, I told you that while I had opposed your action, the election was over, and that I considered it my first duty to cooperate with every department of state government, and that included the governor. I offered you my cooperation in the interests of the state service."

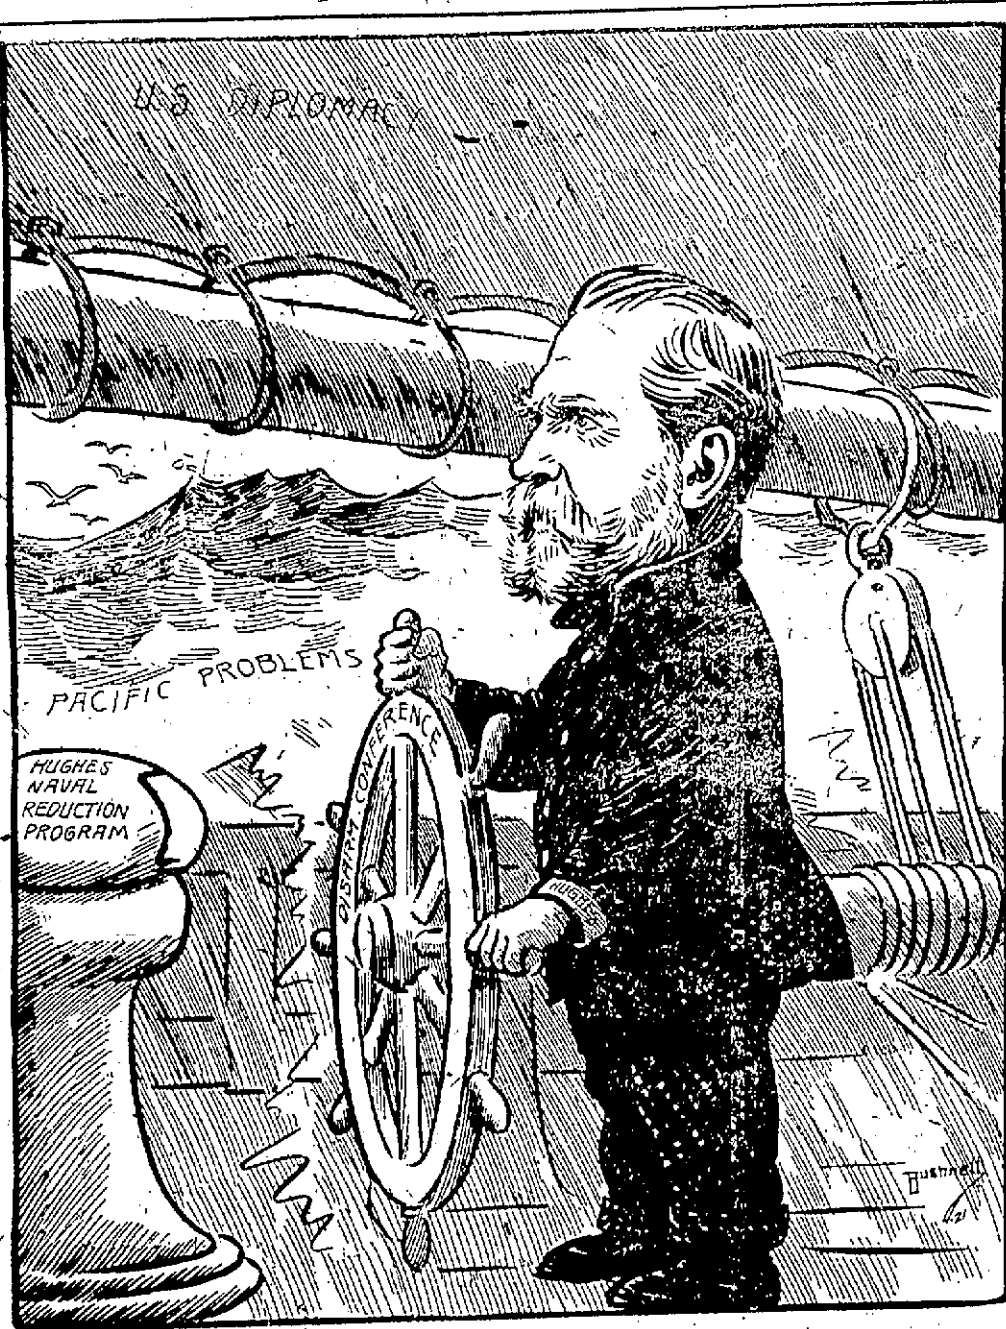

"I now renew the offer of cooperation which you have heretofore not seen fit to avail yourself of. I ask you to permit your cooperation instead of your opposition."

"We mean to prosecute our investigation and the suits against unlawful combinations in restraint of trade whether we have your cooperation or your opposition, but it must be apparent to you that we will be more successful if we have your cooperation."

COUNTY TO INSTALL NEW SET OF BOOKS

Supervisors Vote State Accounting System for Rock County Records.

Adoption of a resolution for the county to establish a state auditing and accounting system was the feature of the evening meeting of the county board Tuesday afternoon. As a result the supervisors will make allowance in their budget item for the installation of the new system, the plan was advocated by County Clerk Howard W. Lee.

The towns had haste to put in claims for bridge and road money from the county, which will be reported back by the highway committee later in the session. A letter from Governor J. J. Blaine was read in which was outlined the funds available from the state and federal government. The governor must approve and sign all road contracts in which federal aid money is used. He cannot pass upon the location of the highways. "We do not want a forced highway program," read the governor's letter. "We want to prevent additional taxes and build only the necessary and reasonable things."

It was pointed out that there is available about $12,500,000 for road work for the next two years and a total of more than $3,000,000 available without the passage of additional state legislation in which the state matches the federal money dollar for dollar.

The governor's letter was referred to the committee and will be incorporated in its report to the board.

Wanted—A Sales Representative

This is a big opportunity to represent a large firm if you can combine sales ability with your acquaintance with local conditions.

An old-established firm engaged for many years in fabricating structural steel and steel sash for all industrial purposes is about to launch a sales and advertising campaign to market steel buildings and steel sash for factories, warehouses, garages, implement sheds, farm buildings and similar uses.

The company will co-operate with whoever is fortunate enough to secure the local representation of this well-known line of steel products in furnishing designs and estimates of the cost of the structural steel and sash required for any building operation. This factory engineering service will enable the local representative to work with the contractor and supervise the construction of the building as easily as if he were a construction engineer.

We want to build up a permanent business in every territory through some individual or firm that is qualified to represent us.

This is an opportunity of uncommon importance. Please "sell" us in your first letter and convince us that you are the one to represent us. Outline your experience, and your present connections. We are ready to act promptly. An appointment will be arranged for a conference as soon as we hear from you.

State Ag. College Wants Weeds Cut and Killed

Need for stricter enforcement of the state laws for weed eradication and control were urged by W. S. Stone, Madison, representing the college of agriculture, which under the present law, is responsible for the application of the statutes requiring the killing of noxious weeds.

"Supervisors held that the provision of the law restricting the towns to paying $2 a day for a weed commissioner was the weakness point to overcome. Methods of getting around the strict provisions of the laws were discussed so as towns could pay more liberal wages for weed cutting."

Planting of alfalfa was recommended for the eradication of Canadian thistles. Town officials were urged to report on the progress of the weed commission and their activities to the department headed by Mr. Stone. Cooperation was asked in combating the weed evil throughout the county.

TOBACCO IN BIG OCTOBER INCREASE

Corn Crop Largest Ever Produced, Says State Farm Report.

Madison—An increase of 1,500,000 bushels of corn, 1,000,000 pounds of tobacco and 5,000 tons of sugar beets during October is shown today by the November report of Joseph A. Becker, state crop reporter. Potatoes decreased 1,800,000 from the October estimate.

Wisconsin's corn crop was the largest ever produced, the report says. Production is estimated at 91,050,000 bushels as compared to 89,338,000 forecast on the first of October. 36,044,000 produced in October, a five year average of 89,585,000 bushels.

Ideal weather for maturing the crop is given as the reason for its bumper proportions, and for full development. The average yield per acre is estimated at 45 bushels compared with 43.9 in 1920 and a ten year average of 36.5 bushels.

The reporter estimates that 931,000 acres were cut for silage as compared to 959,000 in 1920 and 795,000 in 1919. He says that because of the unusually heavy growth of stalks and leaves, more than last year was needed to fill the silos of the state. Production of silage amounted to 8,019,000 tons, compared to 7,520,000 in 1920 and 7,446,000 in 1919.

Quality improved. Worm injury is reported to have lessened somewhat the quality of the corn for grain, with an estimate of 85 per cent merchantable compared to 80 per cent last year and a ten year average of 75 per cent. Stocks of ear corn of last year's crop of farms November 1 are estimated at 3,915,000 bushels.

The unusually favorable weather for corn this year is shown by the report that 95 per cent of the crop matured without frost damage as compared with 93 per cent in 1920, 97 per cent in 1919, 70 per cent in 1918, and 20 per cent in 1917.

The Wisconsin potato crop estimate declined from 23,395,000 bushels on October 1 to 21,450,000 bushels on November 1, the report says. This compares with a production in 1920 of 23,244,000 bushels and a five year average of 27,276,000 bushels.

In the northern counties the final estimate of the crop was said to be larger than anticipated, while in central counties the yield fell below expectations. Yield per acre is estimated to be 60 bushels, compared to 64 last year and a ten year average of 108.

Small Injures Potatoes. Quality of Wisconsin potatoes is reported to have been much reduced by scab and grub worm injury. The average quality is 75 per cent compared to 80 per cent in 1920 and a ten year average of 89 per cent.

Wisconsin's tobacco crop will reach 62,427,000 pounds this year, the report says, which compares with 61,438,000 forecast on the first of October. 52,400,000 produced in 1920 and a five year average of 52,920,000 pounds. The crop is said to have been harvested with little damage from hail or insects, but there are many reports of damage in the sheds from shed burn.

and pole rot. Quality is estimated at 88 per cent, compared to 92 per cent last year and a ten year average of 93 per cent.

Heavy Beet Crop. The sugar beet crop is estimated at 137,000 tons as compared to 132,000 forecast on Oct. 1. 230,000 tons produced last year, and a five year average of 150,000 tons. The condition on Oct. 1 was 85 per cent, compared to 80 per cent a year ago, and a ten year average of 89 per cent.

The cabbage report is the same as October with production at 105,000 tons produced in 1920 and a five year average of 114,000 tons.

Wisconsin's onion crop is also the same as estimated on Oct. 1 with production at 91,000 bushels compared to 552,000 reduced in 1920.

FAT MEN MAKE BEST POLICEMEN
H. S. DECIDES
Two of the newly-formed societies of the high school met within the past week. The literary society met last Thursday. A Literary Digest discussion was held by Adelaide Tuchs, a high school girl, and Everett Howard, a high school boy. The society decided that the best police officers are those who are fat.

The debating society met Monday night in the Science Lecture room. The business meeting was followed by an exciting debate, the question being "Resolved, that thin policemen are more efficient than fat ones." The negative team, Donald McFarlane, William Cook and Everett Howard, convinced the judges that fat policemen were the more efficient, making their points from a book of statistics. The affirmative team was made up of Elmer Peterson, Goldwin Hallett and Graydon Eller. Members of the club are now preparing for the interschool debate to be held at Baraboo in about a month. Another meeting will be held next Monday night.

FAR EAST ISSUES TAKING CENTER OF CONFERENCE STAGE

Hughes and his colleagues to propose a program so generous that there would be every reason to expect its acceptance as evidence of American good faith.

Some naval officers here see in the program presented items which they believe could have been proposed in better terms for the United States without endangering the success of the conference.

May Oppose Modification. Now that the matter is back in the naval experts' hands, it seems possible the original position of the American advisers would tend to stiffen their opposition to any modification of the American proposals. There is little doubt the British suggestion for limitation of submarines to non-sea going defensive craft will fall in this classification under the American view.

Decision of the American delegation to exclude aircraft from proposals for reduction and future limitation of naval forces goes deeper for its reasons than Secretary Hughes indicated in his statement that the ready convertibility of commercial aircraft to war purposes made the writing of aircraft limitation impractical. Beyond that obvious fact, however, lies the desire of every nation that no impediment should be placed in the way of development of air navigation for the benefit of all mankind.

Experiments Are Needed.
Giants strides in the air were made by all powers under war impetus. But back again to days of peace, air craft development is moving at a snail's pace all over the world. The place of air navigation in the commercial scheme of things is not yet established. It is not yet clear what the possibilities are and if governments do not carry on the experimental work in connection with armies and navies, the newest and most promising field of transportation probably would be neglected for years to come.

This is the view taken by army and navy officials of the United States and it is reflected in the American proposal to the conference. It is to be expected, as the conference moves along, that rules to limit the use of aircraft, to curb bombing of defenseless cities and civilian populations, hospitals and the like in war, will be written. There is a definite place for that on the agenda.

Are Easily Convertible.
As to convertibility, it is apparent offhand, officers say, that any plane capable of carrying the mail or another burden could be loaded with bombs for war purposes, equipped with machine guns and otherwise put into fighting shape in a matter of hours.

Navy officials are far from satisfied that aircraft have reached a point where the old time surface craft of the battle line have lost their importance as the main reliance in war at sea, but they admit that air developments have added new factors to the war game and that in the future may lie such radical advances in air work as may in fact wholly revolutionize naval warfare.

American observers expected no serious proposal during the conference for any form of aircraft limitation that would inhibit such development.

CHAPTER LXXVII.

COLIN.

"I'm inclined to think that for all her apparent disapproval, Mother Taylor enjoyed the prospect of this silent fight between the village and myself. She took a certain grim pleasure in it."

Down in his heart there was a large amount of admiration for me because I would not run away, because I dared to stay on there and calmly face the criticisms of the little town. Once she had discovered of me, Motherlike, she had taken every excuse to defend her son so I was the target for her displeasure. Winthrop's faults had become such that she could no longer overlook them—therefore she had to find a reason for them. I supplied her with the excuse for him. Someone had to be condemned, so I was the one. But Winthrop's faults had become so glaring that not even I could be an excuse. So Mother Taylor came around to my side, and now was anxious to take my part against the village, even against her son.

She would not admit this, of course, even to herself. But she showed it when she said cordially:

"Of course Mr. MacReady can have his old room again at my house. He's a very nice man, no trouble, and I like him about."

But the dear woman could not resist one final conventional dig:

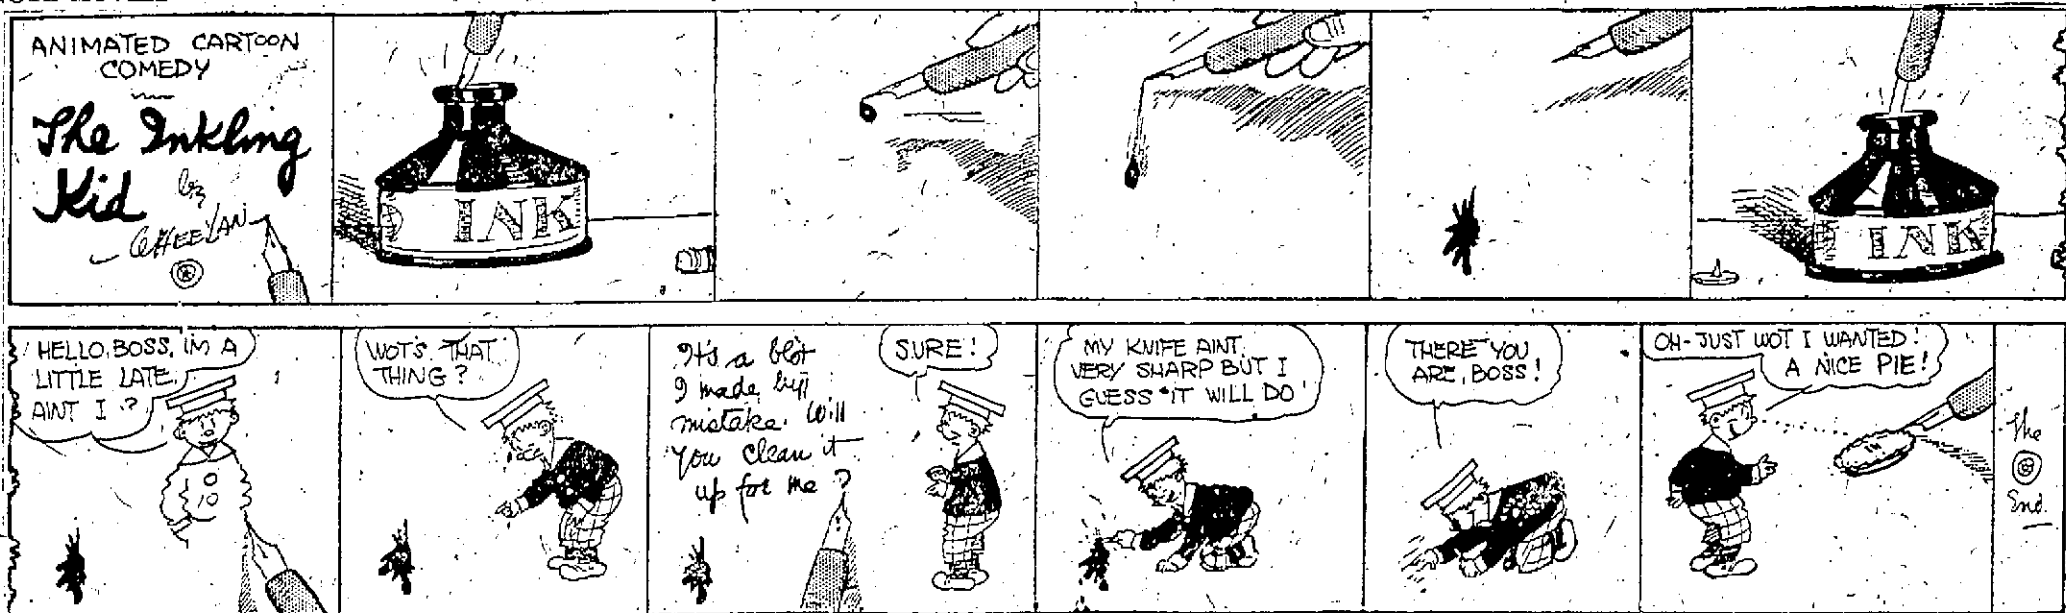

"He's an artist and you admire his taste," she remarked, pulling her little black cape around her shoulders ready to leave. "Taylor's to bed before nine every night."

"But how about those dinner and card parties? You know we went regularly last time I was here."

"Did You Ring, Sir?"

Within certain limits a young man who desired a comfortable life could not better than to consult an aunt. He could trust her implicitly in matters of general conduct. He could trust her even as a referee in matters of business. She would tell him sagely if he should resign his old position and accept the flattering offer of another position. Unlike a mother, who often is inclined to push a son's interests too far, making his conscience ache later, an aunt will look at things from her stand point.

But there is a danger with aunts. A mother acts as a barricade against girls, whatever their charms and powers. An aunt will often supply leaders to "sweet girls" to scramble over the barricades of maternal jealousy.

Richard Wales did not know this, much to his peril. Aunt Caroline had acted as a trustee of purest equity in every matter he had presented to her. It was she who had encouraged him to stay in the profession of law when a broker had tried to tempt him with a dizzy salary. "Physics" or for your own sake," Aunt Caroline answered. "If you trade on your name the family will be going backward. Push the name ahead."

Later he had agreed with him that he had a bent for politics. When he was elected to the legislature it was only another case of Aunt Caroline having sign-posted the right course.

Richard was the kind to whom her life as a general thing is disagreeable. "Certainly," echoed Aunt Caroline, "you should have your own little flat at the capital." And there enters the dynamite she knew just the housekeeper for him, "the sweetest girl, an orphan, who has been waiting in a little cafe here. She won't have any trouble to bring you. Like an old housekeeper, and she's strong—and not trying to look at all send her up by train tomorrow. She can help you rent your place and furnish it. Be appreciative. I had to coax her a long time to take care of you."

She was a maid-servant out of a picture book.

shopping in half a day, but he spent that time alone in outlining a coherent plan for his young housekeeper. She was a maid-servant out of a picture book. She filled the role of competent cook and housekeeper to suit the most exacting. Then there always lingered about her an atmosphere of highest breeding which combined with her beauty, was powerfully alluring to Richard. The committee on printing of the legislature, of which he was a member, did not see very much of him for the Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: How should a white all-wool sweater be cleaned? Would it be better to have it dry-cleaned?

G. N.

I have a strong suspicion of white soap and when the sunny water is almost cold, put the sweater into it and let it soak over night. Rinse the sweater thoroughly in cold water and dry it flat on the door so that the weight of the water does not stretch it out of shape. You can clean it as well as a professional cleaner.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a fellow for a year and lately he has been playing football. I have done everything possible to discourage him about playing and have scolded him for it. Sunday afternoon he met with an accident and broke his arm. I am very sorry about it and would like to know how I can show him I am sorry for the way I have talked to him about playing.

P. W.

Above all avoid the "I-told-you-so" attitude. If you have a chance to talk to him mention the fact that you are sorry he broke his arm, but say nothing about your objection to his playing.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Kindly advise me if I should answer a letter that has been written in red ink. I have often heard people make remarks about red ink letters, but I first few weeks. But Miss Pepper told me that if I should answer a letter that has been written in red ink, I should take good care of my girl. Remember she is no slave. She comes from a very good family, but when her father died, leaving her nothing, she had to find work as a waitress in a tea room here. You are her first employer as housekeeper. Isn't she a dream?

The fascinating housekeeper appeared. "Did you ring, sir?" she asked. "Yes," answered Richard, "and it will be for the last time, perhaps. Won't you please marry me?"

The present he gives you will not indicate how much he cares for you. Flowers might carry with them more love than jewelry.

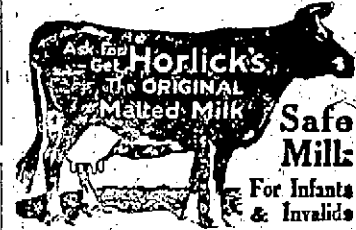

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 21 years old. If a boy comes with his parents to see my parents, wouldn't it be all right when they go home to ask him to come again some time? I would like to know, as I do not want him to think that I am running after him. A DAILY READER.

To ask him to come again some time would be merely courtesy and he would have no reason to think you were running after him.

Way up in the land of ice and snow, lives our little friend the Esquimaux. He loves to go fishing just the same as any little boy or girl, but he has to chop a hole in the ice. And here we have the picture of him, which is very easy for you to draw.

BEAUTY CHATS by Edna Kent Forbes

USEFUL HAIR TONICS

Very few people bother to apply a hair tonic properly. It seems like a very small thing to consider and one not worth troubling about, yet like most small things it is really very important.

Many people apply a hair tonic by upsetting small portions of the tonic over the head, rubbing it around through the hair and then consider the job complete. This method, unfortunately, gets more tonic over the hair than into the scalp, and the result is that the hair becomes sticky or oily. The woman is apt to conclude that the hair tonic is no good because it makes her hair look so messy and makes her shampoo it at least twice as often as she needs to.

One way to apply hair tonic.

down the parting, then part again in another place, rub some tonic down that parting, and so on until you have covered the scalp with decent thoroughness. A great many women find it more convenient to put a tiny vial of tonic with the tonic and to rub this down the partings of the hair. This is certainly most convenient if you have not one of the regulation hair tonic bottles.

You never need use much tonic at one time, the important thing is to get it on the scalp. When you have done this run the fingers through the hair and begin the massage, which is an important part of any scalp treatment. A thorough massage will rub in the tonic so that practically none can get over the hair and will stimulate the circulation of the blood to the roots of the hair.

M. S. Brown, Eves, L. A. Aune, better—An oily scalp shows that an unhealthy condition exists. This must be treated and cured, washing the hair with too much lemon juice or too much baking soda to dry out the scalp is not a remedy, and sometimes is an irritant.

Use a hair tonic and massage the scalp every night. Go without hats as much as possible, and do not wear false hair or pads. The scalp must have plenty of air.

Shampoo every three weeks, using a little soda or lemon juice in the final rinse if you wish, but only a very little.

Dinner Stories

Dugald McTavish, the all-round athlete and sportsman in the village, entered his name for all events in the local Highland games.

The first event on the program was the half-mile, and of eight runners Dugald finished eighth.

"Dugald, Dugald," said a fellow Scot, "why do you not run faster?"

"Run faster?" he said, "scarcely, 'an' me reservin' myself for the bagpipe competition."

Ree Deach, who has forsaken the profession of novelist for the more lucrative one of scenario writing, said recently:

"It is a common enough thing for a good man to dash off a scenario in a week or so and get $10,000 for it, but scenario writing, nevertheless, isn't all beer and skittles."

There's an English poet in our midst, who recently decided to make his debut in the film world. The other day as I was lunching with the bell ringer and the servant brought in a bulky envelope.

"The English poet examined it. Then he ground his teeth."

"What is wrong?" I called.

"In," he snarled. "I sent the Star Film Corporation four scenarios last week, and blamed it they haven't returned me mine."

City League Bowling Suspended for Week by Officials

TO PLANE DRIVES COMING WEEK-END, J. B. A. INFORMED

Bowling in the city league has been suspended for a week following a meeting of the board of directors and captains of the teams to discuss the proper conduct of the organization. The games will be resumed a week from Wednesday. This will necessitate continuing the original schedule of the league. To cooperate with the officials of the Janesville Bowling association in boosting organized bowling in this city, Nelson & Hill, proprietors of the East side alleys, will resume their upstairs alleys Saturday and Sunday. These drives will thus be in shape for the resumption of league games in a week. Upon the completion of this work, the officials will be measured and the official sanction of the American bowling congress procured. Application for sanction has been requested by the West side alleys.

By action of the association, Hjorth cannot be suspended for rolling in three leagues, the league not being enrolled under the J. B. A. ranks.

BRINGING UP FATHER

MANDELL BOXERS

BUY FINE HOME

Fame in the boxing ring has added shekels to the pockets of Sammy (and Joe) Mandell. The bantams last week purchased a palatial residence on Harlem boulevard, Rockford, for their parents. They have realized an ambition starting when they first donned the gloves. Sammy was on the first card here last year.

During the summer prominence in the battle game added much gold to Sammy's coffers. He is now getting purses of $1,000 to $1,500.

The Mandell brothers have plans for a lightweight basketball team this winter. Sammy has also plunged into football, being manager of the Rockford specials.

Devine Leads

Elliott Scoring

Flowey Elliott, star halfback on the Wisconsin football team, surrendered his hold as individual point getter in the Big Ten conference to Captain Aubrey Devine of Iowa after Saturday's game. Rushing across Purdue's goal four times, Devine increased his counts to 66, while Elliott remained at 42.

Brown of Minnesota and Locke of Iowa are tied for third place, with 24 points each. Workman of Ohio is fourth with 22. Taylor of Ohio and Thomas of Chicago are tied for fifth place with 18 each.

BROOKLYN AND CHI

"PREP" GRID BATTLE

Chicago. A high school football team from Chicago will go to Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 24, and face Erasmus Hall on Ebbetts field, Nov. 25. The Chicago team has not yet been picked.

ROLLIE MAY NOT

LEAD TEAM SATURDAY

Madison. While Rollie Williams played a stellar individual game against Michigan last Saturday, several others which he made in running the team may keep him out of the quarterback position against Chicago in the final battle of the year. Weaknesses shown in the line against the Wolverines may mean another shift of players.

Cronin and Kenning Big Factor at Hill Saturday

When Marquette university clashed in the battle of the century for the Hilltoppers Saturday against Notre Dame, Tom Cronin and Bob Kenning, the Janesville pair of half backs, will be big factors in the game. These players have made up against all obstacles to hold their positions tight during a hard season.

GILMOUR DOBIE ONCE MORE LOOMS

AS WONDER MAN AS CORNELL COACH

No one but our old friend Gilmour Dobie, "Gloomy Gil" is the man behind the Cornell team, which leads the east as a scoring machine and is one of the undefeated teams of that section. Out of what appeared to be poor material Dobie has built a powerful machine. Leonard Hanson, left tackle, is the leading goal kicker of the east. C. P. Lechler, fullback, and Dave Munns, right end, are three of his stars.

Leach Cross, taken when he was in his prime.

The other night veteran fight fans in New York pinched themselves to be sure they were awake when they saw someone who looked much like Leach Cross climb into the ring to fight Frankie Maxwell. It was Leach Cross. And he celebrated the start of his fifteenth year in the game by outpointing Maxwell. While Leach has no championship aspirations, he is giving the public some thrills in his comeback.

Badgers' Screen Passing to Count Against Maroons

Chicago.—A forward pass attack said to be one of the most advanced shown during the season, will be the best asset the Badgers have when they play the Maroons Saturday to decide which team will be runner-up in the Western conference series.

Not only have the Badgers perfected a variety of forward pass plays, but they have four men trained as receivers, and a new formation has been developed to protect the play from interference as much as possible. The team is reported to be in excellent condition.

Couch Stagg put his Maroons through their last scrimmage practice of the season Tuesday night. He is guarding carefully against the team going stale as it did after the game with Ohio State; this condition was apparent for several days last week and Illinois was given the odds, on last Saturday's game until Chicago rallied at the last minute.

Stagg field, where the game will be played Saturday, has been sold out for two days, sixty thousand persons having scrambled for seats in a stadium seating 30,000. At one time, it was announced seats were available and disperse the crowd at Earle's gymnasium. Alumni of Chicago and Wisconsin subscribed for every seat not taken by the under-graduates.

Winners in the afternoon matches were Orr-Morningstar, of San Diego, Cal., and Jake Schaefer, Jr., of Chicago. The former defeated Edouard Foreman of Belgium, 400 to 171. While Schaefer defeated George Sutton, also of Chicago, 400 to 240.

Wednesday afternoon Schaefer will meet Conti, while Hoppe will meet Sutton. Contin will play Foreman Wednesday night.

BRITONS SQUARELY BEHIND U. S. POLICY FOR NAVY HOLIDAY

navy to defensive size. He said that length on the importance of a navy to an island people whose food supply is so dependent upon overseas communications.

The theme of Mr. Dalfour's address was that navies should hereafter be purely defensive and not offensive. On the latter point he gave as an example the undesirability of large sea-going cruising submarines whose only object could be the thought, the destruction of commerce in offensive warfare by methods abhorred by civilized nations.

Exactly because Mr. Dalfour wanted to show how far Great Britain was ready to go to stand by the United States, did the British statesman emphasize the strategic importance of a navy to the empire. After he had done that he announced the British acceptance amid an outburst of cheering and a demonstration which was led by Gen. Pershing and in which the American delegation joined.

Reduce World's Tax Burden. Mr. Dalfour threw out a few hints incidentally which will prove significant later on. He spoke briefly but with measured emphasis about land armament. At this Premier Brand loaned forward and arched his eyebrows.

Mr. Dalfour gave the impression that he hoped other nations weighed down by the burdens of land armament would also cooperate with the movement for the reduction of the world's tax burden and thus relieve capital and energies for the improvement of trade, national and international.

It was an unstinted acceptance of the American viewpoint which Mr. Dalfour expressed and he said that "The proportions in the American plan are acceptable—the limitation is reasonable—and we believe it should only be adopted and we believe it finally will be. It has not been received with cool approbation but with hearty approval and with loyal and hearty cooperation."

More Problems to Solve. Now the conference gets down to business. The Japanese accept in principle the British accept likewise, and both nations are ready to approve the American proposals all of which, however, only partly solves the problem. The real task is ahead. It involves a satisfactory formula for Far Eastern questions and land armament. Committees have been appointed and when there is agreement upon principles again on these two matters there will be further open sessions. The actual negotiations will proceed in committee and reports will be announced periodically in public session.

No Partisanship in This. This arrangement is apparently satisfying to most everybody. No political partisanship has as yet appeared. America and Great Britain are working together and the Japanese thus far have given plain indications that they will not lag behind in endeavoring to make the conference a success.

Japan Follows Britain. There was a touch of emotion seldom apparent in international conferences as Japan followed Britain in approving the American naval program and as President Schanzler of the Italian delegation and Premier Brand threw their moral support in the direction of accepting the American suggestions. It was no surprise to find Premier Brand, however, take up the reference in Mr. Dalfour's speech to land armament. Mr. Brand requested an opportunity at some future public session to explain the position to France to which Secretary Hirota graciously assented. Although committee meetings are to be secret the public sessions will furnish occasions for explanation of national viewpoints.

Open Publicity. All the European delegations seem to have become suddenly appreciative of the publicity value of these conferences. But true significance of Mr. Brand's request is something even more far-reaching. It is that France will take the initiative in projecting the subject of land armament in this conference. This will give Premier Brand the chance to show the relationship between Germany's reluctance to pay reparations and the necessity of a large army to enforce German obedience. This may precipitate a discussion of America's war debt and kindred questions which have been hampering industrial progress everywhere. The keynote of this conference is not simply prevention of naval war but reconstruction.

PROBE GAS RATES. Madison.—The railroad commission Wednesday started investigations of gas rates in cities served by the Wisconsin Gas and Electric company, to determine if reductions are justified. Racine, Kenosha, Cudahy and South Milwaukee are among the cities affected.

Gas rates in Portage and Portage also will be considered by the commission, on its own motion, in actions started Wednesday.

The investigations are in line with the policy of the rate body to institute inquiry into rates, where it is thought reductions may be justified.

FOOTVILLE PASTOR GATHERS DATA FOR SERMON ON DANCING

Rev. Gerald E. Smith, pastor of the Christian church of Footville, will preach Sunday night on the dance. Mr. Smith has never yet preached on this subject, but it forces itself forward and must be considered, he says.

So that he might get an idea of what people in general think of the dance, blank pieces of paper were handed out to people present at the service last Sunday morning and each was asked to write his or her opinion, but not required to sign their names.

Mr. Smith received more than 300 answers to his query. These he will read Sunday night. He will discuss the subject logically and fairly, giving "all evidence to have its place in the conclusions." The topic which he has chosen is "The Dance or God or the Devil? Which? Why?"

"I may say something that will surprise the opponents of the dance," says Mr. Smith, "and I may say something that will surprise the defenders of the dance."

COMMITTEES FOR BANQUET NAMED. Footville.—Committees and chairmen to make arrangements for the men and boys' banquet which will be given by the Footville Church of Christ have been appointed. J. K. Remis is chairman of the program committee; Clyde Milbrandt, refreshments; Clayton Honeysett, decorations; Charles Curry, invitations; F. S. Ballis, reception; John Rowland, service; Fred Jones, young men's division; Lester Jones, boys' division; Clayton Fisher, men's group.
